On the Completion Time of the Book Popular Historical Romance of the Three Kingdoms from the Angle of Propagation

WANG Ping (School of Chinese Language & Literature, and Journalism, Shandong University, China)

It is generally held by in the academic circles that the stories narrated in the book The Popular Historical Romance were the creation of many people, but the final written text was produced by a single person. However, there is no clear completion time of the book. The present article is a reexamination of this issue from the perspective of propagation. Following conclusion: the completion of the written version is a process which started from the end of the Yuan Dynasty, the 1st year of Jiajing Emperor when the book was finally published.
