Helping health workers learn: a book of methods, aids and ideas for instructors at the village level.

Author(s) : Werner, D. ; Bower, B.

Book : Helping health workers learn: a book of methods, aids and ideas for instructors at the village level. 1984 pp.632 pp.

Abstract : A new approach to the training, role and responsibilities of community health workers (CHWs) is proposed in this book, emanating from ideas and methods developed through informal networks of community based health programmes. More information is based on 16 years of experience with a villager-run health programme in Africa.

Mexico, the Project Piaxtla. It offers a collection of methods and aids for use by instructors. Part 1 looks at approaches to planning and carrying out a training programme for CHWs; part 2 gives ideas for bringing learning to life and proposes an effective programme for CHWs; part 3 gives suggestions for helping people learn to use a health care handbook (where there is no doctor), applying to any health or training manual; part 4 deals with the activities with mothers and children, as an important health work; part 5 treats health in relation to food, land and social problems.
