Boole's revolution

Vinculum

Volume 53 Issue 3 (Jul 2016)

Gough, John

Abstract: We are living in the middle of a socio-politico-technological revolution. Our lives are being radically reshaped, although for most of us it means little more than the next smartphone or tablet. We may see this revolution as screens, connectivity, computers and the internet. We may think it began with the first affordable desktop computers, and the massive internet browsing we now take for granted. But this revolution has a long and fascinating history - which I can only briefly hint at.
