The white stallions of Vienna.

Author(s) : PODHAJSKY, A.

Author Affiliation : Spanish Riding Sch. Vienna.

Book : The white stallions of Vienna. 1963 pp.70 pp.

Abstract : In this superb collection of over 200 engravings and photographs (some of them in colour) the Director of the Spanish Riding School in Vienna, Colonel I. de la Guzman paid a magnificent tribute to the stallions of the Lipizza stud, which, in truth, he saved for him for its survival through World War II.

The many illustrations of historic interest are skilfully combined with those of the present origin to form an absorbing "documentary" on the work of the oldest riding school in the world, the Lipizza strain associated with it, which is even older, for it was founded with the stud in 1580. Late maturing and long lived, the stallions' progress can be followed carefree youth on the high pastures of Upper Styria, through the discipline schooling, to the supreme achievement of soaring courbettes, ballotades Although the atmosphere of the white and gold Winter Riding School in the its massive crystal chandeliers, pervades the book, in the end it is the white triumph, for, as Colonel Podhajsky says, " They transform even a prosaic fo into a romantic and enchanting dance floor. "

The continuity of the story told in photographs is ably maintained in the cap although at times rather stilted-due, one suspects, to too slavish translator the understanding and appreciation of haute école

This beautifully produced book itself reflects the elegance and style it depicts Fraser.
