Abstract : The first edition of Plant Life of Western Australia grew out of Dr Beard's comprehensive study of Western Australian vegetation. In 1964, in collaboration with the Department of Geography at the University of Western Australia, he initiated a project known as the Vegetation Survey of WA which aimed at mapping the vegetation of the entire State. About 200,000 km were covered by vehicle in 17 years. Beard acquired an unrivaled knowledge of the landscapes and their plant communities over the whole immense area of Western Australia. This new edition has been revised by George. The book makes maximum use of colour illustration, to which the s particularly lends itself. The author took about 2000 colour slides in the course of extensive field work, and over 550 of the best of these feature prominently
