Summary

A new lipid emulsion (SMOFlipid[®]) based on soybean oil, medium-chain triglycerides, olive oil and fish oil is characterised by a well-balanced fatty acid pattern, an optimal 6/3 fatty acid ratio as well as an enhanced vitamin E content. SMOFlipid[®] was tested for efficacy, safety and clinical tolerance in healthy subjects and patients and compared with a standard soybean oil emulsion. The results of the clinical studies indicate that SMOFlipid[®] is safe and well tolerated. Administration of the new emulsion demonstrated controlled triglyceride concentrations and well preserved liver function. Furthermore, SMOFlipid[®] infusion modulated fatty acid pattern in plasma and cell membrane phospholipids. A rise in EPA- and DHA-derived lipid mediators and maintenance of an adequate vitamin E status could be demonstrated, resulting in a
