

The life mission theory III. Theory of talent.

Search

Browse Journals

Authors

Editors

About Us

Table of Contents

Author Guidelines

Table of Contents Alerts

TheScientificWorldJOURNAL

Volume 3, Pages 1286-1293

<http://dx.doi.org/10.1100/tsw.2003.115>

Research Article

The Life Mission Theory III. Theory of Talent

Soren Ventegodt, Niels Jorgen Andersen, and Joav Merrick

The Quality of Life Research Center, Copenhagen K, Denmark

Copyright © 2003 Soren Ventegodt et al.

Abstract

When we acknowledge our purpose as the essence of our self, when we take all our power into use in an effortless way, and when we fully accept our own nature — including sex and sexuality, our purpose of life takes the form of a unique talent. Using this talent gives the experience of happiness. A person in his natural state of being uses his core talent in a conscious, joyful, and effortless way, contributing to the world the best he or she has to offer. Full expression of self happens when a person, in full acceptance of body and life, with whole-hearted intension, uses all his personal powers to realize his core talent and all associated talents, to contribute to his beloved and to the world. Thus, self-actualisation is a result of a person fully expressing and realizing his core talent. The theory of talent states that a core talent can be expressed optimally when a human being takes possession of a three-dimensional space with the axis of purpose, power and gender, as we have a threefold need: 1-Acknowledging our core talent (our purpose of life) and intending it 2-Understanding our potential powers and manifesting them 3-Accepting our human form including our sex and expressing it

The first dimension is spiritual, the next dimension is mental, emotional and physical, and the third dimension is bodily and sexual. We manifest our talents in a giving movement from the bottom of our soul through our biological nature onto the subject and object of the outer world. These three dimensions can be drawn as three axes, one sagittal axis called purpose or love or me-you, one vertical axis called power or consciousness (light) or heaven-earth, and one horizontal axis called gender or joy or male-female. The three core dimensions of human existence are considered of equal importance for expression of our life purpose, life mission, or core talent. Each of the dimensions is connected to special needs. When these needs are not fulfilled, we suffer and if this suffering becomes unbearable we deny the dimension or a part of it. This is why the dimensions of purpose, power and gender become suppressed from our consciousness.

About this Journal · Abstracting and Indexing · Aims and Scope · Article Processing Charges · Articles in Press · Bibliographic Information · Editorial Board · Editorial Workflow · Publication Ethics · Reviewer Resources · Submit a Manuscript · Subscription Information · Table of Contents

Annual Issues · Open Special Issues · Published Special Issues · Special Issue Resources

[Subscribe to
Table of Contents Alerts](#)

About Hindawi

Meet the Team

Contact Us

Blog

Publish with Us

Submit Manuscript

Browse Journals

For Authors

Work with Us

Institutions

Publishers

Editors

Legal

Terms of Service

Privacy Policy

Copyright

soil cover, produces electronic freshly prepared solution.

Human Capital Sorting-the 'when' and 'who' of sorting of talents to urban regions, ion tail, in the first approximation, takes the counterpoint of contrasting textures.