Abstract

Paintings and Drawings in Willa Cather's Prose: A Catalogue Raisonné specific artists and their visual art that greatly influenced Willa Cather's compositions. The Catalogue draws upon the author's research from both American and European libraries and art museums: drawing, illustration, and tapestry. A detailed and alphabetized list of paintings that Cather preferred is provided. The artists are cited with Cather's own statements about their work or style. Included is the artist, the named work of art, and often the date executed, the location, and the museum acquisition date. Bibliographical information articles on a related subject and for relevant criticism by Cather illustrators for Cather's work, and her portrait painters, Leon are discussed. The author comments briefly on how a specific correspond to Cather's textual allusions.

Throughout her career Cather memorized details about individual lives and paintings, and she also followed the changing movement interest in visual art was extraordinary. It ranged from the Old Academic, Dutch and Barbizon genre painters, to the revolutionary Symbolist artists, the English Pre-Raphaelites, and the Impressionist and American. Cather deliberately used visual art to inform her character, mood, or theme. Many of her writings reflect technical Symbolist artists and writers, and she even put to use the Post of cubisme." Links between paint and prose found in Cather's explored in this dissertation.
