SUMMARY

This interesting, informative, and objective study provides a survey of diplomatic events during an eventful century and a half. Among other things, it sheds light on the revolutionary events of the first half of the nineteenth century, the unifications of Italy and Germany, the collapse of the temporal power, the First and Second World Wars, the Holocaust, and the opening of the cold war. In the process, Alvarez dispels the myth that the Vatican was extraordinarily well informed about events worldwide and possessed one of the best intelligence networks.
